

Eternal Radiance: Anthem of the Sun's Surrender

(Verse 1)

In the vast expanse of timeless space,
The sun, a fiery beacon, finds its place.
Its radiance, a gift from heaven's grace,
Guiding our paths with its warm embrace.
But when Christ returns in glory untold,
A new era dawns, a story unfold.
No sun shall shine, no moon to behold,
Yet brighter light shall all the earth enfold.

(Chorus)

Behold the sun, a symbol of the day,
But in heaven's realm, a greater light holds sway.
Brighter than a thousand suns arrayed,
In Christ's presence, darkness fades away.

(Verse 2)

With every dawn, the sun's triumphant rise,
Paints the skies with hues that mesmerize.
But in the presence of the King of skies,
A brilliance reigns, no earthly sight can guise.
No need for sunbeams in that land above,
Where endless joy and boundless love.
In heaven on earth, where all is wove,
The light of Christ outshines all else thereof.

(Chorus)

Behold the sun, a symbol of the day,
But in heaven's realm, a greater light holds sway.
Brighter than a thousand suns arrayed,
In Christ's presence, darkness fades away.

(Bridge)

O radiant Sun, in you we find,
The hope of glory for all mankind.
In your light, our souls entwined,
With heaven's anthem, forever aligned.

(Chorus)

Behold the sun, a symbol of the day,
But in heaven's realm, a greater light holds sway.
Brighter than a thousand suns arrayed,
In Christ's presence, darkness fades away.

(Outro)

So let us lift our voices high,
To the Sun of Righteousness in the sky.
In His light, let our spirits fly,
For in His presence, eternity draws nigh.
