

Harmony's Promise: A Song of Equality

(Verse 1)

In the realm where stars align,
Where the heavens meet the earth divine,
There's a promise written in the skies,
Of a world where every soul will rise.
In the eyes of the divine, we're all the same,
No wealth or title, no fortune or fame,
In the grand tapestry of cosmic design,
Every thread is precious, every soul will shine.

(Chorus)

In the time to come, in the age of grace,
Every heart will find its rightful place,
No more sorrow, no more strife,
In the dawn of eternal life.

(Verse 2)

In the fields where dreams take flight,
Where darkness fades in the morning light,
There's a melody that fills the air,
Of a world where love erases every care.
In the symphony of life, every voice will blend,
No barriers to separate, no walls to defend,
In the dance of unity, we'll find our groove,
In the harmony of love, we'll all move.

(Chorus)

In the time to come, in the age of grace,
Every heart will find its rightful place,
No more sorrow, no more strife,
In the dawn of eternal life.

(Bridge)

Through the valleys deep and the mountains
high,
We'll walk together, side by side,
Hand in hand, heart to heart,
In the journey where no one falls apart.

(Verse 3)

In the garden where flowers bloom,
Where hope springs eternal, dispelling
gloom,
There's a promise etched in every seed,
Of a world where every hunger will feed.
In the tapestry of time, every color blends,
No divisions to tear us, no foes to contend,
In the embrace of grace, we'll find our home,
In the kingdom where every soul will roam.

(Chorus)

In the time to come, in the age of grace,
Every heart will find its rightful place,
No more sorrow, no more strife,
In the dawn of eternal life.

(Outro)

So let's hold onto this vision bright,
Of a world where love conquers might,
For in the end, it's love that prevails,
And in God's eyes, every soul avails.